This subdivision is further amended by deleting the word “Notwithstanding” at the beginning of the first sentence of such subdivision and substituting instead the following language:

Prior to July 1, 2002, and notwithstanding

This subdivision is further amended at the end of such subdivision by adding the following language as a new subdivision (ii):

Effective July 1, 2002, and notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (f), the premium rate assigned to each new employer for each twelve-month period beginning each July 1, shall be the greater of two and seven-tenths percent (2.7%) or the premium rate determined by matching the reserve ratio of the 2- digit North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) in which the employer’s industry or business is to the appropriate premium rates in the premium rate tables set forth in subsection (g). This new employer premium rate will be assigned for each tax rate year beginning each July 1, until such employer's individual account has been chargeable with benefits throughout the thirty-six (36) consecutive calendar month period ending on the computation date. - (b) subtracting therefrom the total of all benefits charged to the accounts of those employers for all years and

- (c) dividing the difference by the average taxable payrolls of those employers for the three (3) most recent calendar years, ending on the computation date.
